

INTERNATIONAL ORIENTATION

The Doctorate in Persons, Business and Markets Law has consolidated research cooperation with various foreign universities and research centers, through multiple initiatives, such as exchange of teachers, joint research projects, cooperation agreements with foreign doctorates. In particular, also thanks to the participation of foreign teachers in the Board, consolidated relationships have been developed with Universität Potsdam, Universitat de Valencia, and Universidad Complutense Madrid.

Considering the international aims of the doctorate, with specific reference to the research topics assigned to the individual doctoral students, a period of training abroad is foreseen at Universities or Institutions with which the Doctorate cooperates for adequate periods of time (and not less than three months).
